

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

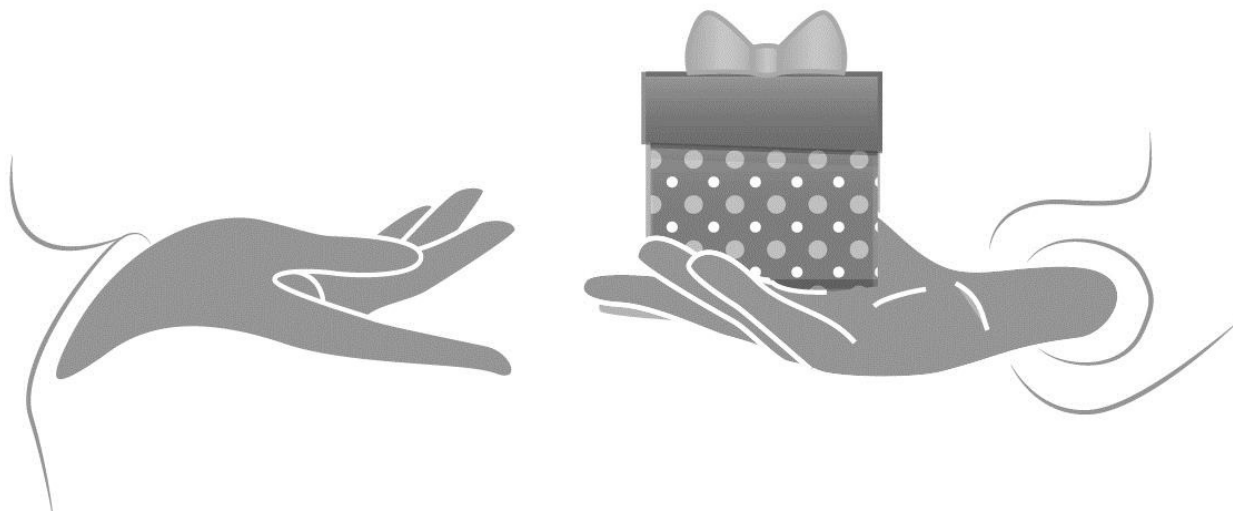

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Giving is better than receiving!

Learning Outcome

Describe routines and regular activities in a wider range of social and work contexts.

Ask your partner:

- Talk about two gifts that you have given that were thoughtful but not expensive.
- Did the person like the gift? Why?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about celebrations, customs, and traditions.
- I can discuss experiences I've had or haven't had.
- I can talk about general and specific quantities.

Let's Explore!

Who is the recipient?

* The "recipient" is the person who receives something.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

We give gifts hoping to please the recipient. Gifts have never been a substitute for love or caring. However a carefully chosen gift can show both.

Choosing the perfect gift for a celebration has always been difficult. A box of chocolates, a pair of earrings or some perfume for a woman have generally been customary. A set of cufflinks or a bottle of aftershave for a man were traditional standards for many years. One year I got a dozen pairs of funky socks for Christmas. They made my day. My grandparents were ecstatic over the new bundle of joy called Teddy my mother brought home one Christmas Day. Other gifts paled in comparison.

Gift traditions have changed throughout the years. I haven't chosen jewelry or a tie for anyone lately. I've given more thoughtful, personal items. These were things I paid little for. Often they were highly cherished. A lot of us have less money to spend these days. Breaking with established customs seems to be the modern way to go.

Let's Practice!

Sally talks about how gift giving traditions have changed!

Instructions: Read the sentences. Find the incorrect words. Write the sentences correctly. Read the sentences aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

1. Choosing the perfect gif for a celebrate has always been difficult.

2. Gift traditional have changed troughout the years.

3. Earrings or some parfume for a women have generally been customary.

4. Cufflinks and aftershave for a men was tradition standards for many years.

5. A lot of him have many money to spend this days.

Let's Practice!

How many socks did Sally get on Christmas?

Instructions: Instructions: Read the sentences. Complete the sentences with the following words: less money - A set of - bundle of joy - a pair of - A box of - some - a dozen pairs - a bottle of

1. A lot of us have _____ to spend these days.
2. One year I got _____ of funky socks for Christmas.
3. My grandparents were ecstatic with the new _____ called Teddy my mother brought home.
4. _____ chocolates, _____ earrings or _____ perfume for a woman were customary in the past.
5. _____ cufflinks or _____ aftershave for a man were traditional items.

Extension Activity

Talk about your ideas on gift giving.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Make a list of 10 gifts you have given in the past.
- Make a note beside each to say why you gave these gifts.
- Write what the gifts were on small squares of paper.
- Ask a partner to turn over a paper and ask who you gave the gift to and why you gave it to them.

Self-Assessment

Yes No

I make a list of gifts I've given.

☐ ☐

I write why I have given these gifts.

☐ ☐

I explain to a partner why I have given these gifts.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- substitute (noun): one thing used instead of another
e.g. Gifts have never been a substitute for love.
- caring (adjective): kind; giving emotional support
e.g. They are very caring people.
- to choose (verb): to decide between two or more things
e.g. It's sometime difficult to choose gifts.
- customary (adjective): usual
e.g. Perfume is a customary gift for women.
- cufflinks (noun): small items to fasten shirt cuffs
e.g. Does he ever wear cufflinks?
- aftershave (noun): a cologne for men to wear after shaving
e.g. I always bought my father aftershave for Christmas.
- ecstatic (adjective): happy and excited
e.g. She was ecstatic when she saw the gift!
- bundle of joy (expression): a new baby
e.g. They brought home their bundle of joy.
- to pale (verb): to be less important
e.g. Other presents paled in comparison to their new grandson.

Learning Points

Quantifiers

Quantifiers tell you how much of a thing there is or how many things there are.

You use a quantifier before a noun to indicate the amount or number of an item. Quantifiers do not indicate a specific quantity but rather a general amount.

Quantifier	Meaning
some	a general amount
a lot	a large amount
less	a smaller amount
a dozen	12
a box	a square or rectangular container
a pair	two
a bottle	the amount inside a bottle
a set	a group of two or more
a bundle	a number of things fastened together

Examples:

- A lot of us have less money to spend these days.
- One year I got a dozen pairs of funky socks for Christmas.
- A box of chocolates, a pair of earrings or some perfume is typical for her.

Simple Past vs Present Perfect

You use the Simple Past tense to talk about things that are finished. You use the Present Perfect tense to talk about actions that have a connection to the present.

Tense	Explanation	Form
Past	Action is over and has no connection to present	Use "ed" for regular verbs.
Present Perfect	Action happened in the past, but there is some connection to the present, action may still be happening in the present	Use "have or has" and past participle of verb

Examples:

- Gift traditions have changed throughout the years.
- I haven't chosen jewelry or a tie for anyone lately.
- One year I got a dozen pairs of funky socks for Christmas.

